Description

This Swiss chronograph comes from a watchmaker's new stock and features cases from the legendary Nicolet workshops (a workshop that has collaborated on productions for Breitling, Blancpain, and others).

Steel case with a smooth bezel, horn-shaped lugs, square pushers, and a brushed screwed back (signed Nicolet). Copper-colored dial with a pearl-finished index track, tachymeter scale on the flange, and two hollowed sub-dials (minutes at 12 o'clock and small seconds at 6 o'clock). Arabic numerals and Tritium dots, syringe-style hands coated with luminescent material, large red chronograph seconds hand.

Chocolate-colored alligator leather strap with a vintage leather strap and pin buckle.

Movement: Mechanical manual winding VENUS Caliber 170 (like the Breitlings of that era), Swiss-made.
